Intelligent Energy - Europe

The EU Intelligent Energy Agency is the equivalent to the United States' Department of Energy. The only difference is that this covers the European Union. They provide latest news and information to the public and to businesses. They also interpret the policies of the EU about energy for businesses. The EU Intelligent Energy Agency is currently overseeing 200 international projects that pertain to the world's energy and they are actively perusing newer and cleaner methods of energy production to improve the quality of life, worldwide.
